RigNet Announces Adverse Ruling in Inmarsat Arbitration

HOUSTON – December 3, 2018 – RigNet, Inc. (NASDAQ: RNET, “RigNet” or “the Company”), a global technology company that provides customized communications services, applications, real-time machine learning, and cybersecurity solutions, today announced that the International Centre for Dispute Resolution’s arbitration tribunal (“the panel”) issued a ruling in favor of Inmarsat Global Limited (“Inmarsat”) that concluded Phase I of the multi-phase GX Arbitration, which commenced in October 2016. The panel’s Phase I ruling found that a take-or-pay obligation under a January 2014 contract had commenced and that RigNet owed Inmarsat $50.8 million, subject to any offsets from RigNet’s counterclaims in Phase II of the arbitration. This is an interim ruling, and RigNet is not required to pay any amounts to Inmarsat until the panel rules on Phase II counterclaims. The Company currently expects a Phase II ruling in the second half of 2019.

“While we disagree with the panel’s Phase I findings and are disappointed in the result, the Company has significant counterclaims which will be heard in Phase II of the process, and we intend to pursue those counterclaims vigorously,” said Steven Pickett, Chief Executive Officer and President. “In the meantime, Inmarsat remains a key supplier, and we do not anticipate any impact to our ongoing business operations as we continue to deliver best-in-class managed communications, machine learning, and cybersecurity solutions to our global customers.”

As a result of the Phase I ruling, RigNet expects to record a litigation reserve in the fourth quarter of 2018. The value of the reserve has not yet been determined and will depend on a number of factors, including the Company’s assessment of the value of each counterclaim relative to its potential likelihood of success.

History of the Dispute and Arbitration Process

As previously disclosed, Inmarsat filed the arbitration with the International Centre for Dispute Resolution in October 2016 concerning a January 2014 take or pay agreement to purchase up to $65.0 million, under certain conditions, of GX capacity from Inmarsat over several years. Phase I of the arbitration, now concluded, concerned only whether RigNet’s take or pay obligation ever commenced under the agreement. Phase II of the arbitration concerns RigNet’s significant counterclaims against Inmarsat which will be heard at a hearing scheduled in June 2019.
